Bomber charged in Collier killing

Tsarnaev charged with 45 counts from state and federal authorities; faces death penalty

BOSTON - Simultaneous indictments were handed down last Thursday to Boston Marathon bomber Dzhokhar Tsarnaev, 19, of Cambridge, from both federal and state authorities, announced in a massive press conference.

In a sweeping thirty count indictment from a federal grand jury Tsarnaev, currently in federal custody, faces the death penalty in seventeen of the charges. U. S. Attorney Carmen Ortiz made it clear that the decision on whether or not to seek the death penalty will be made exclusively by Attorney General Eric Holder.

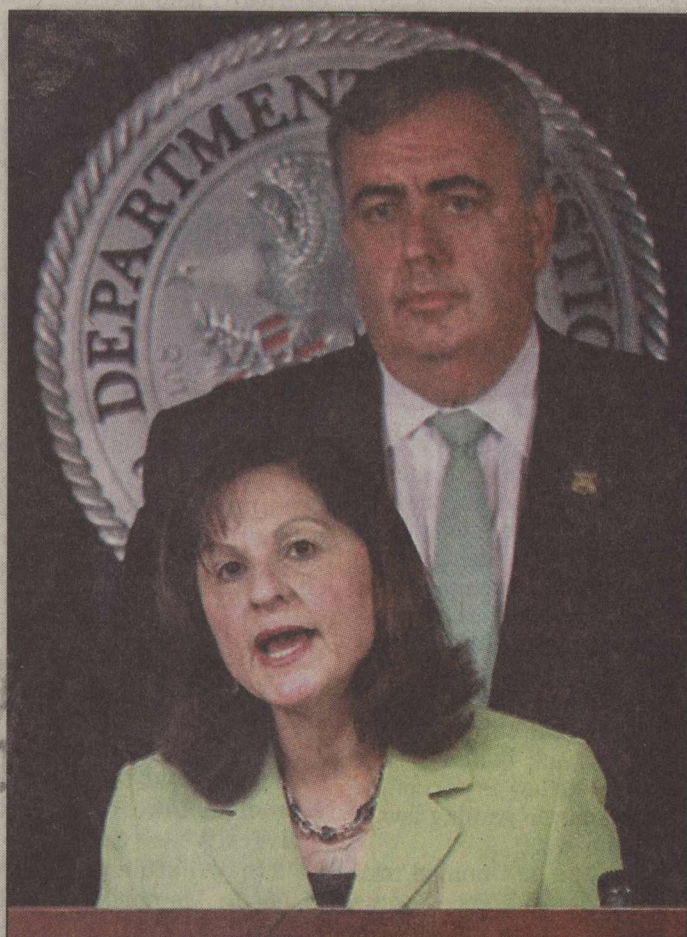

Tsarnaev was also indicted by a Middlesex Grand Jury on more than a dozen criminal charges including murder for the shooting death of MIT Police Officer Sean Collier, Middlesex District Attorney Marian Ryan announced Thursday at the same press conference.

Tsarnaev was indicted on charges of murder, attempted armed robbery, armed assault with intent to murder (four counts), assault with a dangerous weapon (four counts), kidnapping, armed robbery, unlawful possession of a firearm, possession of a large capacity feeding device, and possession of a firearm with a defaced serial number.

"Officer Collier was a dedicated officer who was beloved by the MIT community and we are all deeply affected by his loss," District Attorney Ryan said Thursday. "Today's indictment is about recognizing the sacrifice of Officer Collier and working toward providing some solace for his family. It is also about recognizing the important work of the police in Middlesex County. They put themselves in harm's way every day and this office will fully prosecute anyone who kills or attempts to kill a police officer in this county. I would like to commend the work of the Massachusetts State Police, MIT Police, Cambridge Police, Watertown Police, and MBTA Transit Police and the many other agencies that have collaborated with our office on this investigation. I'd also like to recognize our US Attorney and federal partners, with whom we will work closely as we prosecute this defendant for

'Big Joe' LaCreta passes away

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - Joe LaCreta was a larger than life character. For 52 years, Big Joe's Subs and Pizza was a fixture in Wilmington Square. He was also a professional wrestler and an actor with bit parts in a few movies, including Jaws.

Joseph A. LaCreta died on Sunday after a year-long battle with cancer.

The LaCreta family moved to Wilmington in the 1940s, settling on Burlington Avenue near Harris Street. Joe's parents were Alexander V. and Clothilde M. LaCreta.

Joseph Alexander LaCreta was the tallest and the sleepest senior in the WHS Class of 1952, and was voted the best dancer. He did not like to be interrupted while listening to jazz. His ambition was to own a big yellow Cadillac convertible with a blonde heiress to go with it.

That statement reflected his character. He was a happy-go-lucky fellow with a great personality and an ego to match.

One classmate tells of a incident in school. She was walking up the aisle between desks, and met Joe coming

Middlesex Sheriff announces bid for Markey's seat

BOSTON (AP) - The race for the House seat being vacated by U.S. Sen.-elect Edward Markey is heating up.

Middlesex Sheriff Peter Koutoujian formally announced plans Monday to run in a special election in the 5th congressional district.

In a web-based announcement Koutoujian, a child of immigrants, introduced himself and his family, Waltham natives.

Koutoujian served in the state House of Representatives before being appointed to fill a vacancy in the sheriff's office in 2011. He was elected in his own right a year later. Previously he served as a state representative.

Also Monday, state Sen. Karen Spilka of Framingham is expected to formally announce her candidacy for the House.

State Sens. Katherine Clark of Melrose and William Brownsberger of Belmont, and state Rep. Carl Sciortino of Medford are also eyeing the seat.

Markey won a special election last week to succeed John Kerry. He's expected to be sworn-in later this month.

Rocking with The Neighborhoods

Interview with musician (and Wilmington native) John Lynch

By JON BISHOP
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - It all began with a KISS album.

John Lynch, a '95 graduate of Wilmington High School and the current drummer for the Boston-based rock band The Neighborhoods, remembers being captivated by Alive

II. "I saw that cover, and, on the back cover of that album, there's a picture of the four of them," he said. "Just the picture of Gene Simmons—all bloody and sweaty—just totally intrigued me, and basically changed my life."

That was at age three. He's been drumming ever since.

And it's no surprise that he now considers KISS one of his greatest influences.

He first saw them when he was six. At first, his dad would take him to concerts. But then, when he reached high school, he would go with friends.

"They've obviously made count each of Keeping a House of Ill Fame, Money Laundering, and Possession of Ammunition.

They operated out of Wilmington as well as Bedford, Billerica, Medford, Reading, and Woburn.

The arrests were the result of an investigation by Massachusetts State Police assigned to the Attorney General's Office, in conjunction with agents from Homeland Security and officers from various local police departments, into allegations of human trafficking, money laundering, and prostitution in multiple Massachusetts communities. Participating police departments include Acton, Boston, Bedford, Billerica, Burlington, Dracut, Malden, Medford, Providence RI, Reading, Revere, Waltham, Wilmington, and Woburn.

According to investigators, Chen and Keplin operated six businesses that were portrayed as massage parlors but were in fact fronts for an extensive human trafficking and money laundering operation. They allegedly characterized and advertised these businesses as providing "bodyworks" services. The businesses are:

- Body Language - Wilmington, MA
- Bedford Asian Bodywork a/k/a Bedford Wellness Center - Bedford, MA
- Shrine Spa a/k/a Billerica Bodywork a/k/a Boston Chinese Club - Billerica, MA
- Mystic Health Center - Medford, MA
- Body Wellness Center - Reading, MA
- Asian Bodywork a/k/a Woburn Wellness Bodywork - Woburn, MA

During the course of the investigation, authorities developed evidence indicating that Chen and Keplin were the leaders of this operation, running a profitable and organized criminal enterprise through these businesses that had been set up as fronts for illegal activity. Through these businesses, Chen and Keplin allegedly offered sexual activity between women they employed and their clients in exchange for a fee.

Chen and Keplin allegedly coordinated the recruitment of women from across the eastern seaboard, including New York. They advertised sexual services on websites known to advertise prostitution, set up appointments for sexual encounters for the women, and managed the financial aspects of the organization. Authorities allege that they arranged for overcrowded housing where the women typically slept on mattresses on the floor, or in some instances on the massage tables at the businesses. Chen and Keplin also allegedly facilitated the daily transportation of the women to and from the businesses.

According to investigators, Chen and Keplin typically received the majority of the profits from these sexual encounters and used that money to perpetuate the criminal enterprise. They allegedly used the money derived from their illegal massage venture to support the daily operations of the businesses, including paying rent, utility bills, and for advertisements.

Chen and Keplin were arrested on May 13 and arraigned in Somerville District Court the following day. A Middlesex Superior Court returned indictments against them on Wednesday. They will be arraigned in Middlesex Superior Court at a later date.

In 2011, AG Coakley filed comprehensive economic crime legislation, which included a state money laundering statute designed to give law enforcement the necessary tools to investigate and prosecute sophisticated criminal activities and enterprises in the 21st century. The crime of money laundering was included and signed into law as part of the state's casino gaming law in November 2011.

Since the new human trafficking law in Massachusetts went into effect in February 2012, the AG's Office has handled multiple cases. In March 2012, AG Coakley's Office arrested and arraigned four individuals charged in connection with running a human trafficking operation in and around the Boston area, who were then indicted in May 2012. In October 2012, the AG's Office arrested and arraigned three operators of so-called massage parlors in Wellesley and Revere in connection with human trafficking and prostitution. They were indicted in January. In December 2012, the AG's Office arrested a Dorchester man in connection with running a human trafficking and prostitution operation in the Greater Boston area. He and a Plymouth woman were indicted in March.

Both Keplin and Chen were held on $250,000 bail.

Information from the Office of the Attorney General contributed to this report.

Scholarships awarded to local students

WILMINGTON - After a delicious Italian buffet catered by Rocco's Restaurant and served by members Cheryl Caira, Julie Manos, Alicia Johnson and Terri Woods, the Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli Lodge #2183 of Wilmington awarded several $1,000 scholarships at its June 19th meeting.

To begin the awards program, Trustee Lennie Malvone personally awarded a $1,000 scholarship to Gemma Fuller in memory of his late wife, Rosemary. Gemma graduated from Woburn High School and will attend Endicott College majoring in Nursing.

Scholarship Chairman Jennifer Bolanos continued the program by introducing six more students to the assembly: Rachel Yarid, Courtney Patterson and Kirstin Alfonso, all graduates of Methuen High School; Mark Caira, a graduate of Shawsheen Valley Technical High School; and Michelle Woods and David Caira, graduates of Wilmington High School.

Rachel Yarid received the Wilmington Sons of Italy Memorial Award and will attend Westfield State University in the fall, majoring in Social Work. Courtney Patterson was the recipient of the Gerald Esposito Memorial Award and will study Elementary Education at Fitchburg State. The Past Presidents'

Award was presented to Kirstin Alfonso, who will attend UMass Lowell, where she will major in Kinesiology. Mark Caira received the scholarship in honor his grandmother and founder of the lodge, Laura Caira. He will attend ITT Technical Institute and major in computer networking. Michelle Woods, the recipient of the Christopher S. DiCecca Memorial Award, will attend Wheelock College, majoring in Elementary Education. The Fr. Francis W. Mackin Memorial Award was presented to David Caira. David will attend the University of New Hampshire in the fall, majoring in Sociology.

After the students received their scholarships, they were initiated in to the lodge as senior members.

This year, for the first time, the Wilmington Lodge awarded a $2,000 scholarship to graduate student, Aldo Caira III. Aldo is pursuing a law degree at St. John's College in New York. Wilmington SOI members enrolled in graduate studies are encouraged to apply for these (one-time only) scholarships.

The officers and members of the lodge offer their congratulations and best wishes to the scholarship recipients and invite them to become as active in lodge activities as their college schedules allow.

an impact," he said.

Throughout high school and college Lynch drummed in a few bands. But things changed in 2000.

He met Dave Minehan, a member of The Neighborhoods.

Lynch was drumming for Mark Laseau. They did an album over at Woolly Mammoth Studios, which was owned by Minehan.

They immediately hit it off.

"We both knew pretty much right away that we had something in common," he said.

The Neighborhoods, a trio consisting of Minehan, Lee Harrington, and another member, were supposed to be Boston's next big band. They had an Aerosmith connection; they were signed by Third Stone Records, which was owned by Michael Douglas.

And the band, which was founded in 1978, began to grow in popularity.

"So basically, the band, in 1987, they toured the US with the Ramones—Cheap Trick in '91," he said.

But they couldn't achieve superstardom—even though they had "the look," the major label, and the talent, Lynch said.

They started to record a new album, The Last of the Mohicans, which was supposed to debut in '92. It didn't. And then things slowed down.

Lee Harrington, who was with the band from '82 to '92, got a job with Nixon & Peabody. Minehan opened his record studio.

The fan base—which Lynch calls die-hard—never disappeared, however.

"[Minehan] was always getting offers and calls to do Neighborhood shows," Lynch said.

So, in 2002, they figured they'd do it.

Lynch joined the band; Harrington moved back to Massachusetts. And the three of them, as Lynch put it, became like brothers. In 2004, the band started playing some gigs. They do about three or four a year.

"Maybe a couple more. It all depends," he said.

Their shows are always sold out.

They played SXSW in 2006. In 2009, they opened three shows for the Joe Perry Project. And, on August 25, they'll be playing with Cheap Trick.

They're also back in the studio.

"We're working on a new studio record right now," he said. They're also planning on releasing Last of the Mohicans.

The Neighborhoods, then, are here to stay.

"There's definitely more stuff to do," he said.

Four Wilmington students earn degrees from BU

BOSTON - Boston University awarded academic degrees to 6,073 students in May 2013 including several from Wilmington.

Receiving degrees were Pinkey S. Shah, Master of Arts in Medical Science; Christina Farese, Doctor of Education in Curriculum and Teaching; Lisa A. Rooker, Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering, Magna Cum Laude; David Rak, Master of Education in Physical Education and Coaching; Kevin J. Cronan, Bachelor of Arts in Economics, Cum Laude; Derrick Z. Taylor, Bachelor of Arts in American Studies.

Also BU announced that Thomas A. Valente, a resident of Wilmington, has recently been named to the Dean's List at Boston University for the Spring semester.

Each school and college at Boston University has their own criterion for the Dean's List, but students generally must attain a 3.5 grade point average (on a 4.0 scale), or be in the top 30 percent of their class, as well as a full course load as a full time student.

WHAT PHASE-OUTS DO

Over certain incomes, some tax benefits are "phased out." For instance, if a couple filing jointly has an adjusted gross income that exceeds $300,000, their personal exemptions are reduced by 2 percent for every $2,500 of AGI over the $300,000 threshold, disappearing altogether past an AGI of $422,500. The thresholds for head of household is $275,000, for singles, $250,000 and for married filing separately, $150,000. These thresholds will be adjusted annually for inflation.

What does this phase-out actually do? It can add as much as 1.5 percent per exemption to the marginal tax rate.

Phase-outs of itemized deductions can do even more damage to tax rate. At the same thresholds, the write-offs are reduced by 3 percent of the excess AGI—though deductions for medical expenses, investment interest and casualty losses are exempted. Reduction in write-offs can never exceed 80 percent.

Statehouse passes budget

Local aid increases along with tax hikes expected

BOSTON - Beacon Hill legislators passed a $34 billion state budget Monday that includes a $110 million increase in Chapter 70 school funding and $21 million more for unrestricted aid to cities and towns.

Both Tewksbury and Wilmington will see increases in local aid for schools and general government this year.

"When I was first elected State Representative in 2010, I promised that Local Aid would be my top priority," said State Representative Jim Lyons. "I have fought tirelessly for more equitable funding for our communities, and am pleased to announce that we have secured an increase in Local Aid funding for the third consecutive Fiscal Year."

The budget relies in part on $500 million in new taxes, including jumps in the cigarette and gasoline taxes and a new software tax, approved last week in the transportation finance bill and now waiting for Governor Patrick's signature.

"This," Lyons added, "marks a remarkable turnaround for the taxpayers and communities of our state. Up until the year 2011, the Patrick administration continually cut local aid to our cities and towns. Today, we are making real progress toward correcting the damage inflicted by those unwise Local Aid cuts."

Representative Jim Miceli told the Crier that he voted in favor of the budget, calling it an "excellent budget" in terms of increasing funding to localities. He noted that in addition to increases in Chapter 70 and unrestricted government aid, the budget also has an increase in the circuit breaker, which helps towns fund extraordinary special education costs.

Miceli said he did not support the transportation finance bill and the tax hikes proposed within it. He suggested the shortfall that might be created had the transportation bill failed could come from the state's rainy day fund.

"Our most vital services," Lyons said, "are provided through our local communities: education, police, fire, libraries, public works, and public safety.

"With this Local Aid increase," Lyons concluded, "we are moving forward towards properly funding our communities and ensuring that vital local services achieve more secure and predictable state funding. I am fully committed to continue working in the Legislature to strengthen the Local Aid budget."

Relay for Life Recognizes Key Supporters & Award Winners

WILMINGTON - The Relay For Life of Wilmington has continued fundraising to reach a new total of $104,151 for 2013 alone. This success, say organizers in a statement to the press this week, is a direct result of the outstanding community support and the incredible work by the teams.

The superb facilities and assistance from the Shawsheen Valley Technical High School have been invaluable contributions to the Relay results. Again this year, the staff there made the event possible. Because of construction on the new Wilmington High School, a different location was needed for both 2012 and 2013. It was an especially challenging situation this year, because school was still in session. As a staunch supporter of community events and the fight against cancer, the Tech high school personnel pulled it together and met every challenge of providing an excellent venue.

While Shawsheen is relatively new to Relay, many other sponsors and supporters have been involved since its inception in 2009. Obviously the town of Wilmington has been totally engaged and supportive by doing everything from providing a venue and the associated support to sending speakers. Other long term supporters include Rocco's, Two Cousins Karaoke and DJ Services, Pepsi, Couto Management (Dunkin' Donuts), Jessica Prouty Band, Camp 40 Acres, Firestone, Concord Teacakes, Designs by Don, Inc., Sons of Italy, Reading Co-operative Bank, Steve Bjork & Friends, Bertucci's, Starbucks Agero, Appian Club, The Cleaner Spot A&S Towing, The Pony Express, Flaherty Jewelers, Roma's Bakery, Market Basket, Anytime Fitness, Jennifer Earls, and Legacy Beads. Beyond making for a fun and festive event, these generous people are the reason that Wilmington's Relay for Life has such low overhead costs meaning much more money for the cancer fight cause.

The people who do the grass roots fundraising for the cause are the teams and their members. Each year, the American Cancer Society recognizes top fundraisers among the participants. For 2013, the top three award winning teams were Cathy's Cancer Crusaders, Sole Sistas, and Warrior Moms. What's more Carolynne Benedetto was recognized as the Top Fundraising Participant. She raised an impressive $11,145.

The motivation and enthusiasm behind these numbers is also recognized. This year's Individual Spirit Award went to Jenn Kwiatkowski and the Team Spirit Award to Sole Sistas. Kwiatkowski received her award for mobilizing volunteers to support the committee in managing the event, her overall commitment to ensuring relay was a success, and for ensuring team participation in theme laps. The team won it for all of the above as well. "It's truly a team that exemplifies the entire Relay experience, not only through fundraising," remarks Event Chair Joe Martiniello. It was enthusiasm and creativity that gained the All Night for the Fight team the Best Campsite Award. Now next year, they are offered the first chance of all teams to pick their campsite location at 2014 Relay.

The American Cancer Society supports the event with a part-time staff representative; local people are in charge and do the vast majority of the work. While most event chairs serve two to three years, the Relay for Life of Wilmington has been led by Martiniello since its inception here five years ago. In fact, inspired by Wilmington resident Tom Barry, Martiniello brought the Relay to the town. A central core of volunteers has been working with him since 2009. His long term volunteers are more that just individuals. It's usually their whole families.

That's certainly the case with his family. Joining the Martiniello family are the Musicant, Hollenbeck, Harvey, Golden, Barry, Giroux, Kinsella, & Riley and Walsh families & friends.

"They are key to Relay; it's all possible because of them and so many others who get involved along the way too," Martiniello explains as he expresses praise and gratitude to all concerned. Notable families supporting the core volunteers and earning top honors in fundraising include the Martiniello, Benedetto, Lambert, Kwiatkowski, Rodenhiser, Ceres, Murray, Caruso, Nally, Grabowski, Musicant, Cook, Boudreau, Lunt, Andersen, McKenna, Fritts, McCue, Barnum, Caira, Kubiak, Breen, and Holman families. "It is truly the families who help us that ensure Relay is a family experience."

In addition, Martiniello praises local media companies for their outstanding coverage. "The Town Crier, the Patch, and the Advocate, as well as WCTV, have all

With package postage costs skyrocketing, Local Heroes needs your help

BY DAN HALL
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - The mission of Local Heroes, the organization responsible for sending thousands of care packages and letters to soldiers all over the world, is certainly a noble one. Almost nothing will bring a bigger smile to a soldier's face than a care package from home or a letter from a loved one, friend or appreciative stranger. However, the logistics of this charity are difficult and becoming more expensive every year, says Veterans Affairs officer and town selectman Louis Cimaglia IV. "The postage on items sent out through Local Heroes averages $40,000 a year, and it's getting more expensive," said Cimaglia. Through a variety of upcoming fundraisers, Local Heroes hopes to offset the incredible cost of postage and send items, and smiles, to the soldiers who deserve them.

One such fundraiser is set for Sunday, July 28, at 1pm in the parking lot of the Wilmington Knights of Columbus. The second annual Hot Rods show will bring many antique vehicles, including hot rods, and motorcycles to the parking lot for admiration by whomever wants to attend. The price for showing a car just five dollars, and attendance at the event for the public is free, says Cimaglia. The event is run by a group of young Marines, who participated in the event last year.

"There will be a cookout, a raffle, and lots of other events. This will be an excellent place to bring your family and have a good time," said Cimaglia.

The money from the fundraiser will benefit Local Heroes, which has shipped 16,700 packages to local soldiers. For more information about Local Heroes, readers are encouraged to visit the website <http://masslocalheroes.org/>.

Interchange delay disappointing

According to the Massachusetts Department of Transportation, Highway division website, the death of the Lowell junction interchange project is exaggerated, but not by much.

The plans to construction a new interchange on I-93 between exits 41 and 42, in order to "relieve traffic on I-93 and provide a connection to Ballardvale Street at Research Drive on the east side of I-93" is still in the works with construction scheduled to begin in Summer 2019... just six years from now and eleven years after the tri-town task force submitted paperwork in 2008.

The interchange plans would also extend Burr Road to connect the interchange ramps just west of Ballardvale Street. I-93 will be widened from three lanes to four lanes between exits 41 and 42 to ensure the benefits of the new interchange. The project cost is estimated at $147,587,993 and is listed as being in the "preliminary design phase."

Local officials and federal representatives from the EPA expressed disappointment two weeks ago at a public meeting held at the Trahan Elementary School in Tewksbury that the interchange is nowhere near done, and therefore has no ramp structure available for aiding in the remediation of the Sutton Brook Superfund site.

Plans to complete the clean-up at the site, which already saw the removal of drums of contaminated waste, among other things, are set to commence in the fall. 2013 will bring just a few weeks of disruption to typical traffic patterns just as school is getting back in order, but the clean-up is set to scale up to 100 truck trips per day for the summers of 2014 and 2015 along Shawsheen, Bridge, and South Streets connecting the Dascomb Road exit and the toxic waste site on South Street.

Residents have raised concerns with the planned route, which is the least expensive and has the fewest barriers to entry, especially since the road needs no improvements prior to the beginning of the construction. Without sidewalks along any portion of those roads and an average of 1 truck every four minutes during working hours, pedestrians walking along those routes and kids riding their bikes are particularly vulnerable to accidents. The corridor will also experience a significant traffic slow down, with the increase in truck volume.

While it is appropriate for work to finally commence on the Sutton Brook Superfund site remediation and bring relief to South Tewksbury residents, its truly unfortunate that efforts to combine the interchange construction with the clean-up were not fulfilled. The project has remained at a standstill effectively since U.S. Department of Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood came to the area in October 2010 and supported the notion that the interchange design should not incorporate a ramp connecting to South Street. At the time, LaHood specifically cited that the winding, narrow geography of the street of more than 250 homes, could not sustain the major increase in traffic that a highway connection would engender.

The Town Crier encourages the local and state officials to continue to pursue the development of the interchange project, bringing commerce and development to these landlocked parcels, and growing the economy locally. It may be too late to reduce the impact of the remediation of Rocco's Dump, but the project itself should not die from benign neglect.

Markey needs to be present

By JON BISHOP

Massachusetts has a habit of sending people to Washington who aim to complete a Democratic checklist. So it shouldn't surprise that they elected Ed Markey, a partisan member of the House of Representatives.

Markey isn't unusual. Our senators often forget that they are supposed to reflect the character of the state they represent. That way, the states, as a whole, could decide how to best tackle pressing national issues. Instead, they tend to speak for themselves or their party.

And this is neither the fault of the citizens nor the candidates.

We can blame the 17th Amendment, which was proposed and passed in the midst of the progressive era. It mandated that the citizens should directly elect their senators. Originally, they were selected by state legislatures.

It was a huge mistake. It separated the states from the federal government and it is partially responsible for the bloated bureaucracy that we have today. It's why a lot of people hate politicians.

But it doesn't have to be this way. Senators can still reflect the character of their state. They do this by being present and, well, listening.

Congratulations to Senator-elect Ed Markey. Now let's hope he fulfills his job description.

Independence Day

After his high school graduation, my son planned a day trip to New York City with a friend. He purchased round trip bus tickets and couldn't wait to leave. At age eighteen, he didn't need my permission (although I gave it to him anyway, against my better judgment).

He got a taste of the Big Apple during our family trip to NYC last October. After one short weekend, he was an expert at deciphering the layout grid of the city. He loved the constant busy-ness. The electrical atmosphere of something-going-on-every-second appealed to him. He couldn't wait to return to the city on his own. He envisions himself living there someday.

"New York City has everything you need all in one place," he told me. I could see the excitement in his eyes.

I am happy he will be attending college close by in Boston. He spends a lot of time in the city and he knows his way around. Boston is like New York, only on a smaller scale. Much easier to navigate. Less chance to get lost. Or swallowed up. But I don't want to think negative thoughts about his trip to New York City. It's just a day trip after all. And he's with a friend. He'll be back in twenty-four hours, I tell myself.

I don't want to be a doting father. I don't want to live in a constant state of overprotective/needless worry/borderline panic, but sometimes it is difficult not to. Especially the morning he was leaving.

"Take a sweatshirt in case it gets cold," I advised.

"It's going to be 98 degrees today," he said.

"What if the bus has the air-conditioning cranked up all the way?" I asked.

"Dad, I'm not 75 years old," he replied.

"Did you check the weather forecast? What if it rains?" I asked.

"Then I guess I'll catch a cold."

He had an answer for everything. I eventually stopped offering advice as he prepared to leave. I bit my tongue at the obligatorily "Do you have your bus tickets." I keep reminding myself that he's eighteen years old, not ten.

He left to catch the bus. I looked out the window and made a mental note of what he was wearing: gray t-shirt, beige cargo shorts, red sneakers, black backpack. Just in case anyone asks. My mind kept redirecting itself to that dark place you see on the 11:00 pm news.

I had visions of my son being lost in a post-apocalyptic maze of "Escape from New York" proportions with no way out. I was sure his money and his cell phone would be stolen leaving him adrift on the island of Manhattan with no rescue in sight. I waited for the police to knock on my door to give me the bad news.

I couldn't have been more wrong. I should have rested easier knowing my son is smarter than I give him credit for. He called me at 10:30 pm to let me know he and his friend had a great day touring the city, eating New York pizza and visiting Central Park. They enjoyed a live jazz show in one of the many New York underground clubs. They were heading back to the bus terminal early so they wouldn't miss 12:00 midnight bus back to Boston. He asked if I would mind picking him up at Boston's South Station bus terminal at 5:00 am the next morning. Mind? I would be thrilled just to have him back in Massachusetts at any hour.

The whole experience was a positive one. My son stretched his wings of independence to the limit. I felt helpless knowing he was so far away (despite the notion that cell phones keep everyone close). I was proud of him for staying out of trouble. In the back of my mind I couldn't help wonder if he was just lucky this time or if my vision of the world is warped by the media's sensationalized depiction of events outside my door. As a parent, I understand that I must let my child go in order for him to grow. Why is it so much easier for him to let go than it is for me?

Wilmington company receives training grant

Grants benefit over 5,600 employees at 72 Massachusetts companies

BOSTON - The Patrick Administration Thursday announced $5.7 million in the Workforce Training Fund General Grant Program, providing for the training of over 5,600 current and newly hired employees at 72 Massachusetts companies across the Commonwealth, including Wilmington-based Implant Sciences Corporation. The grants, which are for up to two years, serve as a resource for businesses to increase the skill set of their incumbent employees and provide valuable training to the workers. As a result of these awarded grants, participating companies project to create 414 new jobs by the end of 2015.

Implant Sciences Corporation, of 600 Research Drive, was awarded $42,900, which will train 44 employees and create 30 new jobs as a result of the training.

"The Workforce Training Fund offers employees the ability to learn new skills and expertise that allows their employers to compete more effectively in their respective industries," said Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development (EOLWD) Secretary Joanne F. Goldstein. "It's a proven resource and we look forward to working with the business community to further implement training initiatives and partner with them to maintain a highly skilled workforce in all regions and all economic sectors of the Commonwealth."

Within the manufacturing industry alone, the Administration awarded more than $10 million through this grant program to 117 manufacturers over the last two years. This latest round of Workforce Training Fund Program grants further supports manufacturers as well as initiatives to enhance skills for employees in other sectors including financial services, engineering and hospitality.

"Massachusetts companies recognize that their ability to compete globally depends in large measure on the skills of their workers. The grants announced today will strengthen those skills, as well as the productivity, efficiency and innovation of Bay State employers," said Richard C. Lord, President and Chief Executive Officer of Associated Industries of Massachusetts and Chair of the Workforce Training Fund Program Advisory Board.

"We encourage businesses, regardless of size, to contact us to learn more about the Workforce Training Fund and how this resource can help them to address their business needs," said Nancy Snyder, President and CEO of EOLWD's Commonwealth Corporation. "We are also interested in helping small businesses access the fund through consortiums that can be organized by third party workforce and training organizations."

This round of Workforce Training Fund Program grants support companies located in more than 50 cities and towns across the Commonwealth. Of the 64 awarded grants, two are technical assistance grants, or planning grants, to prepare companies prior to implementing workforce training grants and initiatives. Additionally, two grants were awarded to consortium projects involving multiple employers with common training needs.

Legislators pass death benefit for family of slain officer Sean Collier

Mass. fund to help bombing victims who lost limbs

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts lawmakers have agreed to create a $200,000 fund to help seriously injured victims of the Boston Marathon bombing move to new homes or modify their existing ones.

The measure, included in a supplemental appropriations bill approved Monday by the House and Senate, would provide grants to bombing victims who lost limbs in the April 15 attack. The grants would help them pay for changes to their homes or to move to a new home if necessary.

The money would be in addition to payments from the One Fund, the primary compensation fund for bombing victims.

The bill also authorizes the state retirement board to issue a killed-in-the-line-of-duty death benefit to the family of Sean Collier, the MIT police officer who authorities said was fatally shot by the Marathon bombing suspects.

Special Education Study defeated in conference committee

BOSTON-Last week the Massachusetts State Senate debated a $127 million supplemental budget to fund existing appropriations contained within the FY'13 state budget. With senators filing 52 amendments to the spending measure, Senate Minority Leader Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) succeeded in securing a greatly needed special education study to assess the services being provided within the Commonwealth. However, Monday the study was defeated in the conference committee for the FY14 budget.

"Providing effective special education at an affordable cost is one of the single most daunting challenges our school districts continue to face," said Senator Tarr, "and this comprehensive review will provide us with the knowledge and understanding we need to meet that challenge."

The study, which passed unanimously by a voice vote, authorizes Salem State University, in partnership with the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, local educational authorities, and private educational providers to conduct a sweeping review of the system for providing special education. The study must be filed by July 3, 2014 to the legislature's Joint Committee on Education.

The comprehensive study must:

• Evaluate existing and potential models for providing special education, and the associated costs and benefits such as personnel compensation, transportation, housing and assistive technologies;

• Seek to identify means by which services and instruction may be provided in a proactive manner, without the requirement or need for an individual education plan, but so as to maximize learning progress in local educational settings; and

• Include any legislative recommendations for the legislature to consider.

"Given the cost and importance of providing special education, we need to ensure that we aren't missing any opportunities to do so more cost-effectively. This long-overdue analysis of our present system will be critical in helping us to chart a course toward a system that's financially sustainable and that students rightly deserve," said Senator Tarr.

The Town Crier supports Senator Tarr's efforts and those that supported this budget item. School Committee members and parents statewide should join with legislators to examine educational solutions for disabled students for efficiency and, most importantly, positive results.

Unequal opportunities

What a terrific idea to have a Farm and Rookie League Baseball Jamboree for the younger kids that do not get the opportunity to play in any post season play. The excitement on their faces must have been awesome when their name was announced at Rotary Park. My daughters would have LOVED that. Why didn't the Wilmington Little League host the same tournament for the younger softball players? We pay the same amount of money as the baseball players and the girls deserve the SAME recognition. Disgusted.

Wilmington:

Sunday, June 16th-Sunday, September 29th: It's that time of the year again, with the proud and triumphant return of the ever-popular Wilmington Farmer's Market, once again taking the Swain Parking Lot across from the High School by storm! This year, come by the Market, open on Sundays from 10:30 AM to 1:30 PM for a great variety of different services, from local businesses to fresh grown fruits and vegetables for you to take home to devour! As a note, the Farmer's Market is currently looking for volunteers, and no pets are allowed in the market itself.

Wednesday, July 3rd: Be sure to come to the Wilmington Public Library with the whole family for a night of auditory hysterics with children's comedian Charlie the Noise Guy! He'll tell you the story of Henry Ford's first car race, teach you how to imitate a monster truck and dirt bike, and generally make your Wednesday a whole lot funnier! The show starts at 11:00 AM and ends at 12:00 PM. Be sure to call the library at tel:(978) 658-2967 for more information.

Thursday, July 4th: On the birthday of the United States of America, come and join the Local Heroes organization from 7:00 AM to 10:00 AM in honoring our veterans with a breakfast for them! Volunteers are needed to help make the breakfast a great one, so be sure to go to the Local Heroes website to learn more about how you can help give our vets a phenomenal thank you on our nation's birthday!

Monday, July 8th: Be sure to head to the Wilmington Memorial Library from 4:00 PM to 4:45 PM with your kids for a fun filled session of good old fashioned LEGO construction! The kids will be provided LEGO materials to create whatever kind of creation they can imagine, from the classics to the incredibly zany and creative! The session is intended for children ages 5 and up; for more information, be sure to call the library at (978)658-2967

Through July 2013: "Concerts on the Common" is returning once more this year with four bands playing right on the Wilmington Town Common, on Wednesdays from 6:00 PM to 8:30 PM. The first concert begins on July 10th, and every Wednesday afterwards a concert will be held by a different band at the same time, in the same place until the end of July. All of the concerts are free of charge, so come on and hear some good, local music!

Monday, July 22nd-Thursday, August 1st: The Wilmington High School is proud to offer Summer Enrichment Offerings as part of the Summer School Program! This summer, starting on the 22nd and ending the 1st, students have access to a two-week Latin course, geared at establishing a good base for base language skills, and an SAT Preparation course. The courses are priced at $150 to attend; those interested or who have questions should contact Tracey Kassin at tracey.kassin@wilmington.k12.ma.us or by calling 978-694-6060.

Thursday, August 1st: Join the Wilmington "Men In Blue" in a day of fun in the sun down by Silver Lake in the Wilmington Police Beach Day! Come down to the town beach at Silver Lake to join in on sand castle contests, great competitions, and even barbecued lunch served by men and women of the Wilmington Police Department. The day runs from 11:00 AM to 2:00 PM, and is completely free of charge!

During the Summer of 2013: The Wilmington Athletic Department will be holding a series of varied sports clinics, or week-long sessions of WHS faculty-ran practices designed to not only give the participants a higher understanding and ability at a certain sport, but also to have fun while doing it! Some of the included sports are Basketball, Field Hockey, and Flag Football; for a full list of clinics and dates, as well as a registration form, go to the Wilmington Public Schools homepage, and click on the "More information" tab under Sports Clinics; or head to <http://www.wilmington.k12.ma.us/Wilmington%20Wildcat%20Summer%20Clinic%202013.pdf>

Sunday, September 22nd: Don't miss out on Wilmington's 9th Annual Half Marathon/5k Run or Walk, which begins this year at 10:00 AM at the WCTV station building on 10 Waltham St. For those who wish to register now, you can head to <http://www.runreg.com/> to preregister yourself and your team, which will not only give you a discounted fee, but also a free T-shirt! Be sure to call Nancy Vallee at 978-657-7211 if any questions should arise in your mind. Don't miss out on a community tradition that only happens once a year!

Tewksbury:

Wednesday, July 3rd: Bring your child to the Tewksbury Public Library from 11:00 AM to 12:00 PM to allow them to show off their inner scientist in the library's Summer Scientists program! The scientists will experiment with and learn about a wide variety of science topics, and will leave the program as science experts! Registration has begun; be sure to register your child by visiting the Tewksbury Public Library's website or by calling at 978-640-4496.

Friday, July 5th: Does your family need a fun day of water and laughter? Then bring the whole family down to the Tewksbury Public Library for a Family Fun Day with Water! Bring a bathing suit to run through the library sprinklers and Slip n Slide, and when you're done, bring a blanket to have a picnic on! The fun will go from 11:00 AM to 12:00 PM, and the library would like to remind their guests that food and drink will not be permitted within the library itself, as always.

Monday, July 8th: Join the Tewksbury Public Library from 7:00 PM to 8:45 PM for a Family Movie Night, featuring the classic movie "Iron Giant", a story about how a kid and a huge, metal creature from outer space become friends in a small town. All ages are invited to bring snacks and sleeping bags to enjoy the movie, though proper movie conduct is expected during the movie.

Tuesday, July 9th: Be sure to head to the Tewksbury Public Library for a night of the paranormal with renowned paranormal author Jeff Belanger as he takes you into the world of the paranormal and how they can affect our dreams. Belanger will go into what exactly vivid dreams mean for us, how they make impressions on the mind, and why we experience these dreams. This discussion will begin at 8:00 PM, and end at 9:30 PM. Seating is limited, so be sure to call 978-640-4490 to register.

Wednesday, July 10th: Is your son or daughter a feverish book nut? Then you should bring them down to the Tewksbury Public Library to participate in another session of Book Nuts! This week, children will read "The Strange Case of Origami Yoda", after which they'll make their own Origami Yodas! The Book Nuts session begins at 2:00 PM and ends at 3:30 PM; be sure to pick up a copy of the book at the Children's Desk.

July 14th, 28th; August 11th, 25th: The Tewksbury Community of Artists is pleased to present a series of Free and Open to the public art sessions from 1:00 PM to 3:00 PM at the Green Room of the Tewksbury Hospital, where the public can come in and work on their own personal projects, both new and ongoing. Be sure to join in the art fanfare, and spend some time making your works into refined and true art!

Saturday, August 24th: Be sure to head down to the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks Hall, located on 777 South St. in Tewksbury to join the 8th Annual Support the Troops Poker Run. This year, registration will occur from 9:00 AM to 10:30 AM, and can include a Rider donation of $20 or a Passenger donation of $10. A live band will be playing, as well as a B-B-Q lunch served during the fundraiser, as well as a 50/50 raffle for those interested. All proceeds of the event to benefit the Local Heroes organization, and anyone with questions should not hesitate to contact Chris Barry at 508-954-7840.

Around the Middlesex Area:

Andover:

June 22nd; July 20th; August 17th: The Andover Conservation Committee is opening conservation land on the shore of the Shawsheen River to escorted overnight camping trips for no charge at all for anyone who wishes to enjoy a night in nature. The available camping spot will have four fire pits, picnic tables, table benches, portable toilet, and two river landings for the campers there, and canoes or kayaks are all welcome to be used on the river. A donation of $5.00 is recommended in order to assist in defraying rental costs for the campsite. In order to use the camping spot, you must register first with Bob at campconservation@live.com. Public camping on conservation land is not permitted otherwise.

Thursday, July 4th: Be sure to head down to the Harold Parker Forest Reservation, located on 133 Jenkins Rd. in Andover from 10:00 AM to 12:00 PM for a walk back in time as a tour interpreter brings you into one of the park's main pastimes. Participants will tour the old Jenkins blue soapstone quarry, the Skug River mill site, and a glacial erratic. This tour is free, and is suitable for all ages; all children must be accompanied by an adult. Be sure to wear good footwear, bring sunscreen and insect repellent, and to dress in layers. For more information, call 978-475-7972

Haverhill:

July 15th-19th; July 22nd-26th; July 29th-August 2nd: The Spotlight Playhouse will be holding three separate theatre workshops for children ages 2-5 at their primary location on 24 Essex St. in Haverhill. Each session is a different play, where children will learn to act, sing, memorize lines, and dance to learn the subtleties of acting and what it entails to be an actor. The registration form online should be mailed in to the Playhouse at the above address, and sessions are priced at $125 for one, $225 for two, and $300 for all three sessions.

Lowell:

Thursday, July 11th: The 3rd Annual Backyard Music Series is coming to the Tsongas Center in Lowell once again this summer, beginning with the band RipChord playing live music for all the residents of Tewksbury for absolutely no charge at all! The Music Series will begin at 6:00 PM for all of the bands performing throughout the month; the next featured artist will be musician Sarah Blacker.

Friday, July 26th: Are you a fervent museum follower who enjoys the incredible relics, experiences, and art pieces a museum can offer, but can't make it to the museum due to tough economic times? Then you need to take advantage of the Free Fun Fridays program, a program that aims to make some of Massachusetts' best cultural venues free to the public. The program will be offering free admission to the American Textile History Museum for those who wish to take advantage beginning at 10:00 AM.

OBITUARIES

Michael S. Blowers

Formerly of Wilmington

LEXINGTON - Michael S. Blowers, age 45, of Lexington, formerly of Wilmington, passed away peacefully on June 26, 2013. Michael was the cherished son of the late William F. and Juanita J. (Venuti) Blowers, beloved brother of Kenneth C. Blowers and his wife Valerie of Reading and J. Triana Blowers of Billerica, loving uncle of Joshua Chisholm and Kristian LeBlanc, great-uncle of Jacob. Michael is also survived by many aunts, uncles and cousins. Funeral services for Michael will be private. Donations in Michael's name may be made to the Greater Waltham ARC, 56 Chestnut Street, Waltham, MA 02453. Arrangements are made under the direction of Nichols Funeral Home, Wilmington.

L. Randolph Jennings

Engineer for Bath Corp., Northrop and Avco-Textron; US Army veteran

WILMINGTON - L. Randolph "Randy" Jennings, age 80, of Wilmington, passed away on June 28, 2013.

Randy was the devoted husband for 54 years of the late Harriet (Kelley) Jennings, who passed away on July 6, 2011.

Randy enlisted in the Army during the Korean Conflict. Subsequently, he served as Staff Sergeant in the Army Security Agency's Nuremberg, Germany Station. Randy attended UMASS and Boston University. He was a Project Engineer in the Bath Corporate Program Office; Senior Program Manager of Shuttle Programs at Northrop; and at Avco-Textron, the Program Test Manager of a Satellite System and Systems Engineer of Robotic Units. He was a member of AA since 1970 and a Cancer survivor since 1984. Following retirement, Randy became an avid candlepin bowler and online Bridge player. Randy will be remembered by his work associates for his technical capabilities and sense of humor.

Randy was the loving father of Denise, Patricia and Lendon Jennings, Maura Murphy and Julianne Mullane and her husband Stephen. Grandfather of John, James and Kathryn Garvey, Elizabeth and Emily Pardy, William, Michael and Kevin Murphy, Maureen Murphy, and Daniel, Lauren and Maura Mullane. Great-grandfather of Tommy, Kiera and Charlie. He was the brother of Nancy Clow and her husband Dennis and brother-in-law of Patricia Lee and her husband Don.

Friends and relatives gathered at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rt. 62), Wilmington on Tuesday, July 2nd, at 9:00 a.m. followed by a funeral mass at St. Dorothy's Church, Main St. (Rt. 38), Wilmington at 10:00 a.m. Interment with Military Honors followed in Wildwood Cemetery. Memorial donations in Randy's name can be made to Betty's Place, Shelter for Homeless Women, 40 Berkeley St., Boston, MA 02116.

Tewksbury Senior Topics

Hot weather tips; Foxwoods trip 7/8; Country Western dance 7/12

The Senior Center will be closed on the 4th of July (Thursday) and on Friday, July 5th. It is hoped that everyone has a Happy & Safe Holiday. Happy Birthday America.

Here are some tips to follow during hot, humid weather:

Slow down, avoid strenuous activity.

Wear lightweight, loose-fitting, light-colored clothing. Protect your face with a wide-brimmed hat.

Drink plenty of water regularly and often, even if you do not feel thirsty.

Limit intake of alcoholic beverages. They can actually dehydrate your body.

Eat well-balanced, light, regular meals. Avoid high protein foods that increase metabolic heat.

Stay indoors as much as possible.

If you do not have air conditioning, stay on your lowest floor, out of the sun.

Go to a place where you can get relief from the heat, such as air conditioned schools, libraries, senior centers, theaters and other community facilities that may offer refuge during the warmest times of the day.

Never leave children or pets alone in a closed vehicle.

Do not leave pets outside for extended periods. Make sure that pets have plenty of drinking water.

Check on family, friends and neighbors.

The next Foxwood day trip will be held on Monday, July 8th. There are still a few tickets left.

The trip cost is $25 per person.

Dr. Smith will conduct a Podiatry Clinic at the Senior Center on Tuesday, July 9th. This clinic will be limited to 35 Tewksbury Senior Citizens on a first come basis. A co-payment of $15 is due upon registration. This clinic is partially funded by the Council on Aging. There was still space available at the time this article was submitted.

The Hampton Beach day trip that was canceled due to inclement weather on June 26th has been rescheduled for Wednesday, July 10th. Those people who were traveling on this trip are asked to confirm that you will be attending on July 10th. Refunds will be given to those who are unable to attend.

Several trips in the making are: a historical trolley tour of Lowell; Provincetown on the Fast Ferry; an Amtrak Downeaster train ride to Portland Maine plus a few more. Suggestions are welcome.

A Country Western dance will be held at the Senior Center on Friday, July 12th at 7:00 PM. The featured Band for the evening is Frank Caruso and The Country Gentlemen. Tickets may now be purchased and will also be available at the door. As with all the Senior Center dances, this dance is open to the public.

A Friend's Senior Center Yard Sale will be held on Saturday, JULY 20th from 9:00 AM to 2:00 PM. Table space is available to the general public at $15 per table or two tables for $25. Reservations are now being accepted.

Have a great holiday. God Bless America.

the other way. Joe picked her up by the shoulders, spun around and set her down.

Big Joe's opened in Wilmington Square in January 1961 in a tiny storefront. There were very few shops then for subs and pizza, and Big Joe's was a big hit. He eventually had a chain of shops, plus a delicatessen on Lowell Street, opposite Avco. Joe lost the other shops as a result of a divorce, but kept the shop in Wilmington Square. The shop closed a couple of months ago.

Joe bought the old Wilmington railroad depot, which he remodeled in his style. The interior had red carpeting everywhere, even on the ceiling. Outside, the building donned a brick facade. The walls in the shop were covered with old wrestling posters and newspaper clippings of his career in the ring.

He was a card-carrying member of the Screen Actors Guild. In "Jaws", he was a bounty hunter, a bit part in scene where several bounty hunters descended on Martha's Vineyard seeking the shark.

A couple of years ago, he was the voice of the announcer in "The Fighter."

Joe was a resident of Reading, having built a home there about 40 years ago.

Pedi graduates from Officer Candidate School

Army Second Lt. Christopher R. Pedi of Wilmington has graduated from Officer Candidate School (OCS) at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga., and was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

During the 12 weeks of training, the officer candidate received "basic soldiering" instruction in leadership, professional ethics, soldier team development, combined arms tactics, weapons defense, combat water survival, squad drill, intelligence, field training exercises, day and night land navigation, confidence obstacle course, common core tasks, communications, staff and general military subjects, and physical fitness tests which include three, four and five-mile runs, and foot marches between 5-12 miles carrying rucksacks.

The candidate is tested on leadership skills and team work abilities required of a commissioned officer. Students learned to utilize acquired skills to function in "leader and follower" positions in squad and platoon sized elements, and evaluated in various leadership garrison positions while in a stressful and demanding field environment.

Pedi is the son of Richard Pedi of Oakridge Circle, Wilmington. He is a 2005 graduate of Austin Preparatory School, Reading. He received a master's degree in 2012 from Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

The Golden Rule has always guided the owners and staff at Tewksbury Funeral Home. Caring for and guiding the family of a loved one who has passed is the most important part of our service.

A family of service minded people intent on helping the community in many ways, the Deputat family has helped charter and is a member of several civic organizations in Tewksbury.

When one visits the funeral home one is steeped in the town's history. The building was built over a century ago and has been in the family well over half that time. Lovingly restored and improved by hand by Walter Deputat, the facility is designed to accommodate large and small gatherings, all in the comfort of our up-to-date building.

We invite families to contact us in time of need or for preplanning. We are dedicated to providing the very best facilities, a full range of merchandise, and the finest funeral services at a reasonable cost.

We are committed to serving Tewksbury and the surrounding towns with compassionate services at a cost that only a family owned provider can offer.

Our goal is to not only to meet, but to exceed, our client expectations.

Tsarnaev indicted for Collier's murder

Collier, 27, had been an MIT police officer since January 2012 and prior to that he was a civilian employee with the Somerville Police Department. Gov. Deval Patrick has signed legislation authorizing the City of Somerville to posthumously appoint Collier to the Somerville Police Department, which he was scheduled to join this summer.

Both indictments bring the first charges against Tsarnaev for the murder of MIT Police Officer and Wilmington native Officer Sean Collier.

According to the federal indictment, following the release of photos to the public by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the afternoon of April 18, Tsarnaev allegedly sent a text message to a college classmate telling him that he could "go to my room and take what you want."

Then, at approximately 10 pm according to the indictment, both Tsarnaev brothers armed themselves with five IEDs, a Ruger P95 9mm semiautomatic handgun, ammunition for the Ruger, a machete, and a hunting knife and drove in their Honda Civic to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in Cambridge.

Twenty-five minutes later in the vicinity of 32 Vassar Street in Cambridge, the brothers murdered Officer Sean Collier by shooting him in the head at close range with the Ruger handgun and "attempted to steal his service weapon."

The indictment alleges that Tsarnaev, following carjacking one man's Mercedes and running over his own brother with another vehicle, contributing to his death, eluded capture for hours hiding in a dry-docked boat shrink wrapped in the small backyard of a Watertown home. The indictment says that Tsarnaev allegedly wrote several statements that might indicate a confession including "Now I don't like killing innocent people it is forbidden in Islam but due to said [unintelligible] it is allowed" and "Stop killing our people and we will stop."

The cases will be tried concurrently. Tsarnaev is due back in court on July 10 for his federal arraignment.

Harvey named to President's List at Lyndon State

Wilmington resident Nathan Harvey was named to the President's List at Lyndon State College for the spring 2013 semester. For inclusion on the President's List, students have to complete at least 15 letter-graded credits with no incomplete or failing grades, grades in at least four different courses, and a perfect 4.0 grade-point average. Nathan is majoring in New Media Studies.

Lyndon State balances liberal arts and nationally recognized professional programs that integrate theory with hands-on experiences to prepare individuals for success. Nestled in north-eastern Vermont, the college of 1,500 students is well known for its tradition of enthusiasm, community service, and friendliness.

Rail to Trail in Wakefield, Lynnfield

By PAUL FEELY

A major recreational project within the Middlesex East region is slowly moving forward, after years of work by local officials.

Back in 2004, the Wakefield Board of Selectman recognized a group of local residents as the Wakefield Rail-to-Trail Committee.

"A lot has happened in our town and our world over the past eight years but we are still around and this project is still our focus," writes Dot Halpin, Chairwoman of the Rail to Trail Committee. "This year was the first that we will not have a presence at the Festival by the Lake here in town, but I wanted people to know that does not mean that the rail trail has fallen by the wayside."

The project has been out of the public eye for a few years, but Halpin remains excited about the possibilities.

"The reception of the public has always been so positive and supportive whenever we make our presentation," wrote Halpin. "The number one question is always, 'When is this going to be a reality?'"

Believe me, we have not gone away."

In December, 2012, local officials in Wakefield and Lynnfield were informed by the state's Department of Transportation that the rail trail is eligible for federal highway funds.

"The phase that we are in right now is that our town officials and the engineering and design contractors are working with the Massachusetts Department of Transportation to see this project move forward," writes Halpin. "It is now established as an item on the DOT Transportation Improvement Plan list of projects and that puts it in the pipeline toward construction. We continue to work with Town Hall to check on the project to ensure that it will be moving forward."

While residents of Wakefield and Lynnfield are very familiar with the project, residents of neighboring cities and towns may not have heard much about the proposal, which has been in the planning stages for years now. The following is an overview of the plans, discussed on a very broad level, along with an update on the state funding aspect of the proposal.

This first stage of the project will design a multi-use path along 4.4 miles beginning near Galvin Middle School on Main Street in Wakefield and continuing through Lynnfield and the Reedy Meadow to the Peabody town line. The path will connect residential neighborhoods, commercial and recreational areas, schools, the Reedy Meadow National Natural Landmark, and the MBTA station in Wakefield.

The Massachusetts Department of Transportation is scheduled to work with the communities of Wakefield and Lynnfield to initiate the funding and develop the necessary parameters for the project design. Community officials are working with the MBTA, rail corridor owners, on a long term lease.

According to the initial feasibility study for the project, "The Wakefield/Lynnfield Rail Trail corridor is the southern section of the former Newburyport Railroad that connected Wakefield to Newburyport. It is important to note that this corridor connects, via Peabody and Danvers, to the Border to Boston Trail, a proposed, 30-mile rail trail (or shared use path) linking eight Essex County communities - Danvers, Wenham, Topsfield, Boxford, Georgetown, Newbury, Newburyport and Salisbury, Massachusetts. As envisioned, this trail will connect areas of cultural, economic, social and natural sig-

Movie Reviews
"White House Down"

by Paul Feely

"WHITE HOUSE DOWN" AIMS TO BE a low-brow slab of mindless summer fun. Most of the time it hits the target. It's exciting, escapist fare with lots of thrills and action.

"WHITE HOUSE DOWN" GRADE: ***

Director Roland Emmerich always turns in big, explosive popcorn thrillers full of destruction. Remember "Independence Day," "2012" and "The Day After Tomorrow"? Now, add "White House Down" to the list.

Like those other movies, "White House Down" isn't perfect. The dialogue sometimes misfires. But the film also delivers the requisite thrills and action, and with strong, likable actors filling up the lead roles, it's the kind of exciting, escapist fare designed for summer viewing.

The movie introduces us to a world in which the United States is ruled by charismatic President James Sawyer (Jamie Foxx.) John Cale (Channing Tatum) is a trouble-making Capitol policeman who has hopes of landing a gig with the Secret Service. After blowing a job interview for the position, he winds up on a White House tour with his 11-year-old daughter, Emily (Joey King). Perfect timing: At the same moment, a band of mercenaries (led by Stenz, played by Jason Clarke) are attempting to take over the White House.

The White House was already under attack this year in "Olympus Has Fallen," a thriller that wound up being a surprise hit. "White House Down" manages to avoid déjà vu syndrome by boasting its own plot lines. Although "Olympus" was violent and full of flag-waving patriotism, "White House Down" tempers the action with humor. The bantering relationship between the president and Cale is like something from a buddy-cop flick as opposed to a typical action movie.

The stars work well together. Foxx, in particular, has a good time. Tatum brings gravity to Cale.

Emmerich has a solid group of actors, including Maggie Gyllenhaal, Richard Jenkins, James Woods and Michael Murphy. He does especially well with young King, a winning actress who manages to be cute and spunky without being insufferable. Clarke brings a terrific intensity as the terrorist who makes things personal.

Along the way, there is a plane crash, a simultaneous attack on the Capitol, helicopters racing through the streets of Washington and the presidential limo driving into the White House pool. It's all very wow-inducing despite some major plot holes; then again, who goes to a movie like this for realism? "White House Down" aims to be a low-brow slab of mindless summer fun. Most of the time, it hits the target.

"MONSTERS UNIVERSITY" GRADE: ***

"Monsters University" is a sweet film, a sequel that will make you laugh. It just doesn't hit the same high notes as the first one did.

"Monsters University" is set a decade or two earlier, revealing how tall and furry James P. Sullivan (voiced again by John Goodman) meets short and round Mike Wazowski. (Billy Crystal) during their freshman year at the school, the most prestigious in the monster world.

From their first day of class in the university's Scaring School, scaring comes easily to Sulley. He doesn't bother bringing a pencil or notebook to class. "You don't need to study scaring," he says. "You just do it."

Mike, meanwhile, has been preparing for college since elementary school. He has studied the philosophies of fright so thoroughly he knows the four key aspects of a roar by heart. Yet when Mike tries to put all this devoted learning into action, he gets more laughs than screams. Sulley's lackadaisical attitude to his own natural gifts drives Mike crazy.

These monster misfits would love to be scare majors, but none was accepted for the program, forcing them to choose from other degree options like designing bedroom doors or building yellow metal containers to store children's screams. But if this group somehow wins the annual Greek scare-off competition, the entire fraternity will be accepted into Scare School.

For Mike and Sulley, the games represent their final opportunity to realize their dreams. But to win the challenges, both feuding monsters must put aside their differences and learn to work together and with the rest of their team.

The heart of the film is Crystal and Goodman, who remain as funny, spunky, and relatable as you remember. Their buddy-buddy chemistry is so natural, the actors could team up for several more Monsters films.

The problem at the center of "Monsters U" is you know too much.

Monsters University never rises to the level of Pixar greatness, but it's better than expected. For a Pixar film, that's more than good enough.

JULY 14 AND JULY 2014, ALREADY ON THE CALENDAR

Please check your local "Daily Times Chronicle" for daily updates.

COMING RIGHT UP (READING)

Next public hearing: 8 P.M., July 8 immediately following the Medical Marijuana Public Hearing.

"...the Community Planning and Development Commission (CPDC) held a Public Hearing for the Site Plan Review Approval of 1090-1100 Main Street, the location where Eric's Greenhouse was formerly housed," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The application that the CPDC had received was a proposed plan to remove the existing buildings and construct a 64-bed assisted living facility specializing in patients with memory loss.

"The new facility would be associated with Artis Senior Living, a group involved in developing and assisting in the construction of residences for seniors suffering from memory loss.

"Under the direction of Jean Delios, Reading's Community Services Director and Town Planner, the CPDC works in many areas, including planning and zoning for land approval and development. Five representatives sit on the CPDC alongside Delios and her Staff Planner, Jessie Wilson.

"In speaking with Delios before the meeting, she said that the Public Hearing was not about finalizing the construction of the facility, but instead a time for those associated with the planning of it to present the progress and development of the proposed construction.

"Delios also said that the CPDC and other Reading citizens would be able to voice their concerns and raise questions. According to Delios, there were many additional legislative steps after the hearing...

"...It was concluded that much additional negotiation was necessary and that another Public Hearing would take place. Delios and her Staff Planner, Jessie Wilson, concluded that July 8 would be the date.

"It was unanimously decided that the Public Hearing would take place at 8 P.M. on July 8 immediately following the Medical Marijuana Public Hearing."

BROWN BAG GAMES (WILMINGTON)

The Wilmington Town Museum has extended the following invitation, via the Wilmington "Town Crier":

"On Sunday, July 14, visit the Wilmington Town Museum at the Colonel Joshua Harnden Tavern between 2 - 4 p.m. for their annual open house.

"A Wilmington tradition for 30 years, the museum, housed in a historic Georgian tavern, will offer free tours. The building is named for its first occupant in 1770, Colonel Joshua Harnden, who occupied the home with his wife Sarah and their six children. After serving in the Revolutionary War, Harnden opened his home to the public as a tavern which offered lodging to travelers and served as a meeting place for the public.

"Throughout the summer, the tavern will host weekly 'Brown Bag Lunch & Games' so visitors can enjoy the grounds with a picnic lunch and old-fashioned outdoor games such as badminton, cup and ball, and hoop toss. The event will be held every Friday from July 12 through August 2, noon - 2 p.m., weather permitting.

"Museum tours take place on Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. Take a glimpse into the tavern's rich history and discover what life was like in Wilmington, Massachusetts over 200 years ago.

"The adjacent carriage house will be open most Sundays during the summer for visitors to explore agricultural tools and replicas of colonial flags.

"Museum tours are always free. The Town Museum at the Harnden Tavern is located at 430 Salem Street in Wilmington. For more information, contact Museum Curator, Terry McDermott: 978-658-5475 or e-mail htavern@town.wilmington.ma.us.

NOT SOON ENOUGH (BURLINGTON)

Coming in July, 2014.

"As the town of Burlington anticipates the opening of Wegmans on 3rd Ave. next spring, the various town departments and boards prep for what they can expect from the supermarket," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The Board of Selectmen got a taste of what type of operation can be expected from Wegmans...

"The establishment is going to consist of a 135,000 square foot facility with adjacent parking for 800 vehicles. The plans include a 14,000 square foot mezzanine overlooking a food court, an outdoor café and outdoor cooking classes.

"Town Administrator John Petrin affirmed that he went with the Burlington fire chief, police chief, Selectman chair, and the building inspector to 'look over the operation' in the Wegmans located in Northborough..."

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

When Stan Musial retired in 1963 he had surpassed these hard-to-achieve milestones: 3,000 hits, 300 Home Runs, 600 Doubles and 100 Triples. Since his retirement, only one other Major League baseball player has reached all four of these career milestones. Name him.

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

The good news for the UMass Lowell men's soccer team is that it returns nine starters and 25 veterans from a squad which went 15-6-1 and advanced to the round of 16 in the 2012 NCAA Division II Tournament.

Among those players returning are MAJID SAEED, A SENIOR FORWARD FROM WOBURN; ERIC DESANTIS, A JUNIOR MIDFIELDER FROM WOBURN, AND ALEX BOUTHOT, A SOPHOMORE GOALKEEPER FROM TEWKSBURY.

Facing its inaugural Division I season, the River Hawks can bank on that experience as it embarks on a rigorous 2013 schedule, released on Thursday, which has them playing away from home for all but four matches.

That type of schedule is typical of a college making the transition to NCAA Division I competition. The River Hawks will be eligible to play in the NCAA Tournament and America East Conference Tournament in 2017.

On the docket this season are two NCAA Tournament teams, two conference tournament and regular season champions, as well as three of the top seven teams in the neighboring Northeast Conference.

Moreover, the River Hawks play only once at home in their first 10 matches.

The River Hawks open the season with a two-match swing in Florida - Friday, Aug. 30 at Stetson and Sunday, Sept. 1 at Florida Atlantic University - before visiting Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) Tournament champion Niagara on Sept. 6 and Buffalo Sept. 8.

UMass Lowell returns to play its sole home match on Sept. 12 against NEC stalwart and former Northeast-10 Conference rival Bryant University. Afterward, the River Hawks are away for five straight games, among them a Sept. 18 clash at Central Connecticut and a Sept. 28 match at Sacred Heart, who each placed fourth and fifth in the NEC.

After an Oct. 1 date at Hartford, UMass Lowell returns home to host America East Conference Tournament finalist New Hampshire in its Conference opener Oct. 5. Following dates at Binghamton (Oct. 12), Albany (Oct. 16) and home against Stony Brook (Oct. 19), UMass Lowell visits AEC regular season champion Vermont on Oct. Oct.

26, then hosts AEC Tournament champion Maryland-Baltimore County Nov. 2.

The River Hawks cap the season Nov. 6 at Hartford.

"We will be put to the test right away, both physically and mentally," Figueroa noted. "We have nine out of 10 games on the road against various non-conference opponents that will each challenge us in their own ways."

•Need some help with the trivia question? It's not hank Aaron (he hit only 98 triples).

•Preparing for its first season in NCAA Division I, the UMass Lowell women's soccer team has released its schedule, announced 12th-year head coach Elie Monteiro.

UMass Lowell's entry into Division I competition will be a significant change as only six of its 18 matches will be played at home, a byproduct of the transition to Division I.

As per NCAA rules, UMass Lowell is eligible to play in the NCAA Tournament and America East Conference Tournament in 2017. The River Hawks return 15 veterans and six starters from the 2012 squad which went 6-9-2 overall and 5-9-1 in the Northeast-10 Conference (10th place).

The River Hawks, who play only two of their first nine matches at Cushing Field, will be challenged each match, particularly in their first. The campaign begins Saturday, Aug. 29 at Marist College, the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) regular season co-champion and MAAC Tournament finalist.

The Marist game is followed by dates at Cincinnati (Sept. 1) and Siena College (Sept. 6) and UMass Lowell's first home match Sept. 8 against Yale. After matches at Cleveland State (Sept. 13), Sacred Heart (Sept. 15), which placed fourth in the Horizon League, and Atlantic-10 contender St. Bonaventure (Sept. 20), the River Hawks host Harvard, which placed fourth in the Ivy league, Sept. 22, and visit Ivy runner-up Dartmouth Sept. 26.

UMass Lowell opens its AEC schedule Oct. 3 at home against Vermont, one of four home matches in the month of October, followed by a visit to Stony Brook, the 2012 AEC Tournament champion.

The River Hawks will also entertain AEC runner-up Hartford (Oct. 13), Maryland Baltimore County (Oct. 20) and Binghamton (Oct. 24) at home.

"It's difficult to predict exactly what we can expect from each opponent," Monteiro said. "All we can go on is what we learned by playing a few Division I opponents during the spring season. We saw that we needed to raise our level of fitness. We saw that we needed to be more disciplined tactically and we also need to continue to improve technically."

"Our spring games highlighted our need to improve our speed of play, so I anticipate that being the case when we go up against opponents up and down the schedule, not just in America East," he added.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: George Brett.

Trail from S-1

nificance along the multi-community corridor and provide a non-motorized transportation alternative for residents, workers and tourists of all ages and abilities."

The proposed Wakefield/Lynnfield Rail Trail extends from the Galvin Middle School in Wakefield north to the Lynnfield/Peabody Town Line, a distance of approximately 4.4 miles. Approximately 1.9 miles of the trail is located within Wakefield and 2.5 miles in Lynnfield.

As the proposed end of the trail is at Galvin Middle School in Wakefield, the section of abandoned railroad corridor between Bennett Street and the active Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) commuter rail will not be used.

The proposed trail follows the former Boston & Maine Railroad corridor, which is now owned by the MBTA. According to the Rail Road Valuation Maps, the existing corridor varies in width from 40 to 80 feet wide along its length.

The proposed rail trail will connect residential neighborhoods with commercial areas and provide improved bicycle and pedestrian access to the following destinations:

- Galvin Middle School, Wakefield
- MBTA Commuter Rail Station, Wakefield
- Elizabeth E. Boit Retirement Home, Wakefield
- Dolbeare Elementary School, Wakefield
- Reedy Meadow National Natural Landmark, Lynnfield
- Reedy Meadow Golf Course, Lynnfield
- Lynnfield Middle School, Lynnfield
- Summer Street Elementary School, Lynnfield
- Lynnfield High School, Lynnfield

The trail improves access to five schools along the project corridor. This access matched with safer crossings will enable more children to safely walk and bike to school - a major step towards establishing a safe route to school (SRTS) program.

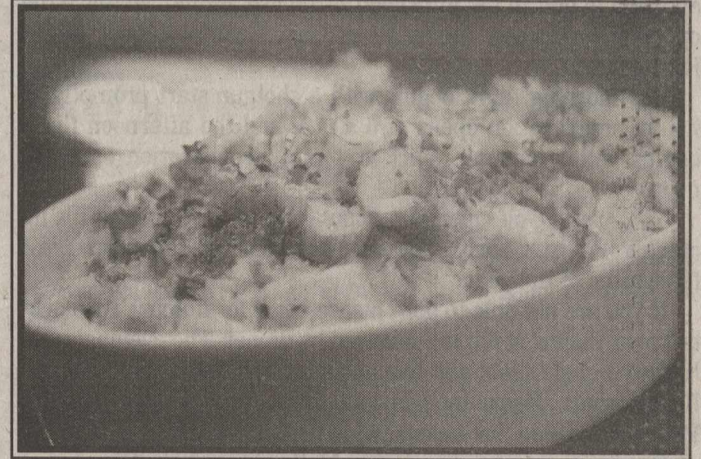

The project corridor was part of the Newburyport Railroad which ran between Wakefield and Newburyport. "It has been a long time coming and will still be some time before we see the benefit of our years of work," writes Halpin. "We want to thank all of the public who have stood behind us all these years and ask that we all 'keep the faith' that Wakefield will have a rail trail in its future. The environmental, economic and social benefits will be worth the wait!"

Crab Mac and Cheese

Macaroni and Cheese is the always the perfect, cheesy comfort food, immortalized in the minds of many with memories of powdered cheese packets and flashy orange boxes. This king crab macaroni and cheese transcends the supermarket box and includes béchamel, gouda and king crab, making this dish both a comforting and traditional American dish and a gourmet meal to serve to party guests. The richness of the melted cheese, cream and crab and the crunch of the browned breadcrumb top render this dish both savory and filling, so serve it as delicious side to a salad, barbeque dinner or any festive cookout meal, but also enjoy it by itself because even alone it will satisfy. Chef Jeremy Holmes inspires us to run to the grocery store or local fish joint to pick up the ingredients for this gourmet dish and start cooking, whatever the occasion.

Ingredients

- Béchamel
- ½ cup whipping cream
- 5 ounce Gouda Cheese
- 1 pound pasta
- ¼ cup breadcrumbs
- 1 teaspoon salt and pepper
- 3 ounces king crab
- ¼ teaspoon parsley

INSTRUCTIONS

1. In a medium to large skillet combine béchamel, whipping cream, and gouda cheese.

2. Mix the ingredients together until the cheese is melted.

See the video on our website food.homenewshere.com

3. Boil pasta, drain and add to the skillet.

4. Season the dish with salt and pepper.

5. Let the macaroni and cheese sit for a few minutes to absorb the flavors.

6. Place the macaroni in a dish and top with breadcrumbs.

7. Toast the dish until golden brown on the top.

8. Heat the crab in a microwave for 30 seconds before adding it to the top of the dish.

9. Garnish the dish with parsley.

Next Week: Amish Chicken

Chef Jeremy Holmes shows us how to make Amish Chicken, a savory and traditional dish that will please the whole family. Tune in next week to see how he puts the whole dish together!

James D. Julia Auctioneers: What is it worth?

Hi Martin Willis,

The silver bowl was given to me by my aunt about 20 years ago. I had told her that I liked the design, so next thing you know, she put it in a box and handed it to me. The best I can make of the stamps on the bottom are, a boat, "C7", "916H", a crown and "VH". It is about 5" high and about the same deep. Can you tell me anything about it, and perhaps the value?

Thank you,
Cheryl M.

Dear Cheryl,

Thank you for your inquiry. What a fun mid century Finnish design nut dish you have.

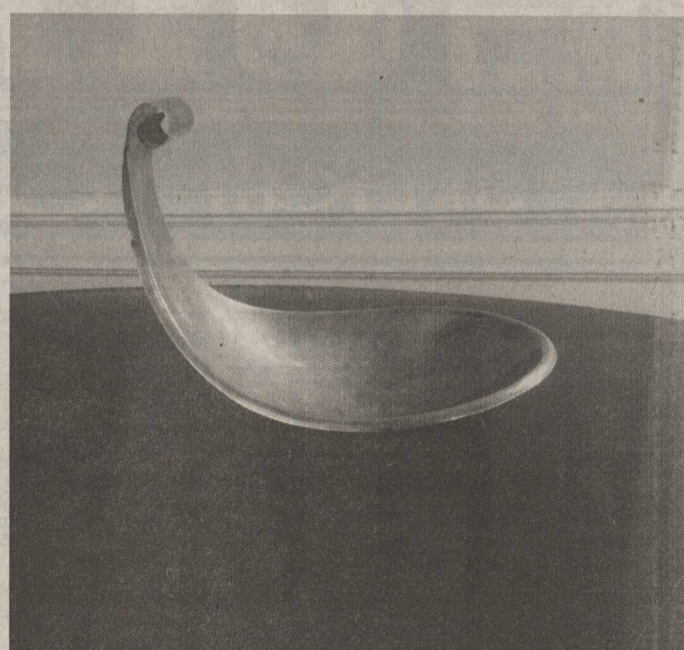

The boat mark stands for: Helsinki, the "C7" mark is usually the date, but that is wrong, because C7=1905 and your piece should be in the 1950s. The "916H" is the silver purity (91.6%), the crown is the Finland National mark, and "VH" is the maker's mark. Unfortunately, I could not track down the maker.

It looks like the piece has tapered ebony feet, which is nice and the design is splendid. I am thinking this dish would have a value of $150 to $200.

I hope this is helpful information for you.

Sincerely,
Martin Willis, Appraiser

er. Light spills in through two standard-width windows on one side, and two much wider windows at the rear. The dining room windows slide open to provide easy access to a patio, which could be covered and screened, if desired, for shaded and bug-free outdoor dining.

Counters and cabinets line all three sides of the efficiently designed C-shaped kitchen. The refrigerator, stove and sink are laid out in a tight, step-saving triangle, yet counter space is ample for two people to work comfortably together without getting in each other's way.

All four of the bedrooms, including the owners' suite, are upstairs in both of the Bergen's units. A wide linen closet is in the hallway, just outside the shared bathroom. The owners' suite boasts its own bathroom, plus a roomy walk-in closet.

This Week's Sampler: The Bergen

Bergen's duplex units spacious & private

It's unusual to find a duplex with four bedroom units, and that's just one notable feature of the Bergen.

The mirror-image units in this contemporary duplex are also spacious and attractive enough that its owners might wish to live in one of them while renting out the other. Widely separated entries and double-thick walls between them ensure plenty of privacy for two families. Because they are identical, one description will suffice for both.

A slender post accents the cozy covered porch. Immediately inside the door, a stairway to the second floor runs up the entry's outside wall. A coat closet is on the opposite wall, just past a short hallway that leads to a powder room, a laundry alcove, and the garage. Another storage space, this one much deeper, is tucked under the stairway.

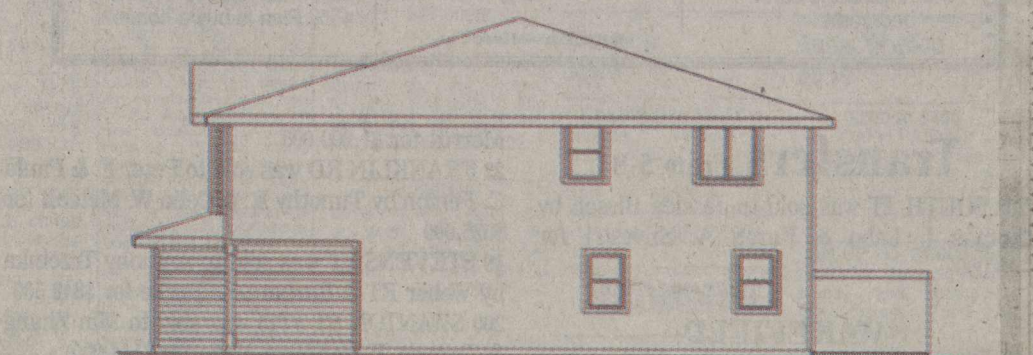

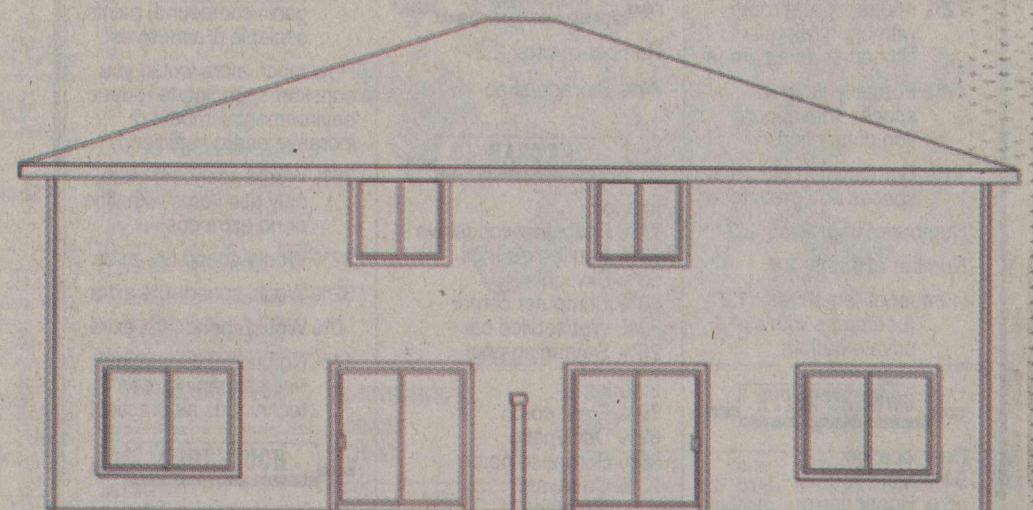

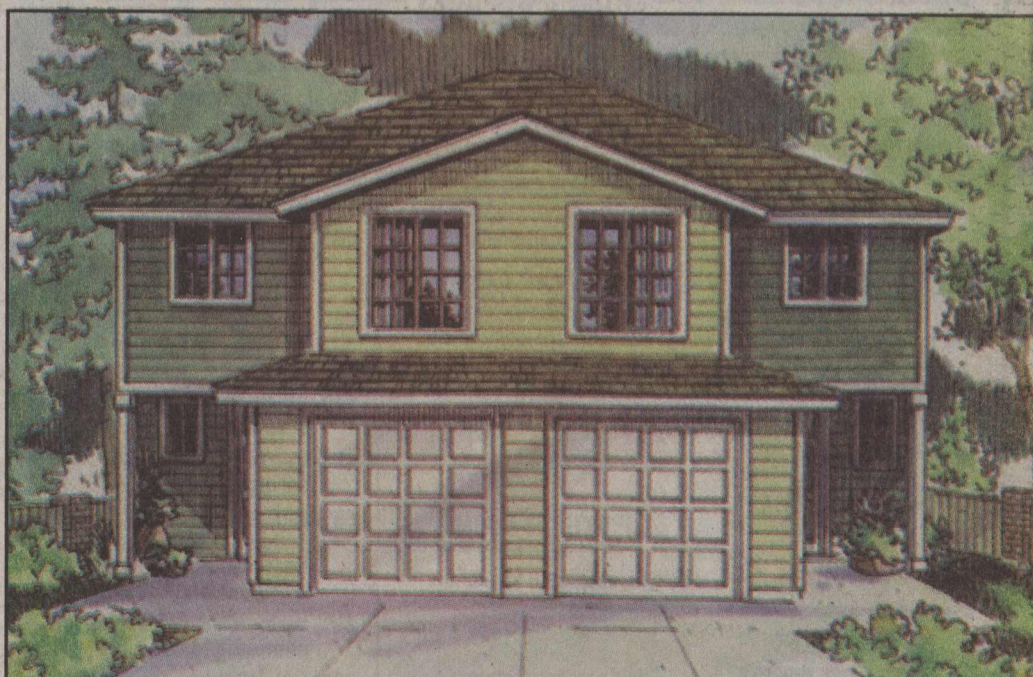

Straight ahead is a spacious family gathering area where the living room, dining room and kitchen flow together.

Karow named new Girls Basketball coach

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For the past two years, Brie Karow has done an outstanding job as the Wilmington High School Girls Outdoor Track-and-Field program. She has brought so much to the table whether it's been her professionalism, her ability to get so much more out of so many athletes and her ability to drastically improve the program. She has accomplished all of that in a very short amount of time. Now she's hoping she can do the same thing as a head coach of a second WHS program.

Just this past week, Karow was named the new WHS Girls' Varsity Basketball coach taking over for Jay Keane, who resigned in May to a promotion at his job with the Somerville Fire Department.

"Naming her as head coach is absolutely a great thing," said WHS Athletic Director Ed Harrison. "Brie was obviously a great high school and college athlete and she has already been able to use her abilities to teach and coach and has done a great job with that. She was a three-sport all-conference high school player in New York and then she was an All-American in track at Syracuse University. We're hoping she can use all of that experience and help our kids. She is extremely knowledgeable in all aspects of sports. She was an assistant basketball coach at Lynnfield and the past few years in Winchester. She is very well respected by the student-athletes here and she just comes off as a real positive person. She's a role model, truly a role model. I know sometimes I use that comment too much but with Brie is fits to the bill. She'll have big shoes to fill as Jay had a great run and got the most of the girls, but we expect Brie to do the same thing."

Karow takes over for Keane, who held the job for eight seasons compiling a record of 120-60, which included eight state tournament appearances, 12 state tournament victories, one league title, a trip to the Division 3 Sectional Final game and three combined trips to the Division 2 and 3 North semi-finals. Before Keane was named the head coach, only three teams back. But I also know there's a lot of talent with the underclassmen as well as a strong nucleus of seventh and eighth grade girls who are at the middle school now. It's exciting. I'm sure I will make mistakes but I'm hoping I'll learn from those mistakes."

Karow grew up in Napanoch, New York and graduated from Ellensville High School in 2003. During her high school days, she played three sports, soccer, basketball and outdoor track. She was an excellent basketball player. In fact during her sophomore season, she scored 22 points in a tournament championship game and was named the Tournament MVP. She was offered scholarships for basketball at the collegiate level but turned them down to concentrate on her track-and-field career which was already overly impressive during her high middle school and high school days before she went on to an athletic scholarship at Syracuse University.

Karow was a member of the Ellensville High track program as a seventh grader. She went out for the team as a runner but ended up pulling a muscle, therefore she decided to take up a field event and chose the discus. She would only go on to become a four-time Section 9 Discus Champion, as well as a two-time New York Champion and an All-American in 2003, where she placed sixth at the New Balance National High School Meet in North Carolina. That's where she threw the discus 133-02, but previously had a best of 138-2 earlier that season.

In addition she was also an excellent shot put thrower with a personal best throw of 37-10, which today would have easily placed her as one of the top throwers in the state of Massachusetts. And she accomplished all of that despite standing just 5 feet, 6 inches tall.

She went on to become an All-American at Syracuse, all the while graduating with honors with a Bachelor's Degree in Special Education and Elementary Education in 2007, before going on to get her Master's Degree in Literacy - Reading Specialist in 2008. She has since been a sixth grade Reading Specialist here at the Wilmington Middle School for the past four years including making marks in the classroom helping to raise over $1,300 in a fund-raising kickball game for Michael Murphy, and being a part of the Middle School's SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) program among other things during her tenure.

During the last five years she has been an assisted coach at both Lynnfield and Winchester High School, including three years with the Sachems, battling Wilmington.

Brie Karow brings her two years of enthusiasm for sports to the basketball court at WHS

"Now I'm hoping we can beat Winchester at their place," she said with a laugh. "Because I was at Winchester for the past three years I won't be coming in to this position with any unknowns. I know who the best players in the league are, I know about the teams and how they play, so that's an advantage I will have."

Karow was asked about her coaching style in terms of offense and defensive schemes.

"I'm not big on set plays," she said. "I want the girls to develop as players and develop their Basketball IQ. I want them to find the open player, to come off the dribble, to drive when they need too and just learn all of the concepts of the game. I think with set plays, it's just you go from Point A to Point B and that's it. Defensively we're going to be very aggressive. We're going to play man-to-man, we'll play full and half courts presses and we'll have to play some zone against certain teams but for the most part we'll be very aggressive playing a full court press."

Karow was asked about possible assistant coaches and said that she believes that both Audrey Cabral-Pini and Dave Sundberg will be returning. Cabral-Pini has been the JV coach for the past 11 years serving three years under Al Duffett and then the last eight under Keane, and Sundberg coached the Freshmen team seven of the past eight years under Keane.

"As far as I know they are both coming back," said Karow. "Both of them are such huge assets to the program so that will be great if they indeed do come back but as far as I know they are. I know Dave and his wife are expecting a baby soon but having the two of them back will only help the entire program. I also want to extend the help to the youth leagues. In my eyes, anyone who coaches at the youth level is like having another coach on our staff - we all feed into each other and we all help each other. I want to extend the invitation to the youth programs to anyone who wants to help out or come and watch us play or practice, it'll be an open door policy."

Those youth players and coaches will be able to watch Karow coach the Wildcats starting this December. With the new high school being built, Harrison said that all the high school games, boys and girls, will be played at the Wilmington Middle School, where Karow teaches every day.

Come and meet the new Wilmington High School Girls Basketball coach Brie Karow. Karow will be on hand this week as one of the instructors of the WHS Summer Basketball Clinic which will be held Monday through Friday from 8:30-2:30 pm at the Middle School. The cost is $175.00 per child and you may come and register by 8:15 on Monday morning.

qualified for post-season play from 1996 to 2005 under three different coaches.

"I'm very excited to get this opportunity," she said. "Replacing Jay will be tough. He is such a great person and such a great coach and what he built is very impressive. He built a program and was able to do some things. Now he's moving on with his job, but I'm excited to take over and hopefully continue the winning tradition. I know there are seven girls coming back, including six seniors so there's nice talent coming

Wilmington participates in

Boston Strong Basketball Tournament

The Boston Strong First Responders Basketball Tournament was a single elimination tournament played at MIT in memory of Sean Collier, the Wilmington resident who passed away during the Boston Marathon Bombings. The event raised over $6,000 and the proceeds will go to both the One Fund and the Sean Collier Fund. Wilmington was represented by both the Girls and Boys Varsity Basketball teams.

The Wilmington High School Girls Team consisted of: Kaitlyn Cowden, Christa Brent, Carli Brent, Michelle Woods, Lauren McKenna, Alexandra Derian, Rachael Mara, Kim Donoghue, Amanda Keane and Amy Fahey

The Wilmington High School Boys Team consisted of: Colin Ahern, Zack Abbott, Ryan Colangelo, Joey Hydorn, Sean Coakley, and Kevin Keane

Other teams that participated included: Watertown High School, Boston Collegiate High School, Stoneham High School, Wakefield High School, Medford High School, Cambridge Rindge and Latin, Malden High School, Lexington High School, Brighton High School, Somerville PD, Pro EMS, Boston Gang Unit, Arlington PD/Fire, Stoneham PD, Watertown PD, Northshore Fire, Cambridge PD, Wakefield PD, Belmont PD, and a United PD team that was a mix of Boston PD, Rhode Island PD, and the MBTA.

Members of the Wilmington Boys and Girls Basketball teams who participated in the Sean Collier Memorial First Responders Basketball tournament include: (not in order) Colin Ahern, Ryan Colangelo, Joey Hydorn, Sean Coakley and Kevin Keane as well as Kaitlyn Cowden, Christa Brent, Carli Brent, Michelle Woods, Lauren McKenna, Alexandra Derian, Rachael Mara, Kim Donoghue, Amanda Keane and Amy Fahey. New measures in beach safety approved by Joint Committee

Bill honors memory of missing 2-year-old Caleigh Harrison

BOSTON — The Legislature's Joint Committee on Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture took favorable action last week on legislation filed by Senate Minority Leader Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) to promote safety at the state's public beaches through a uniform, color-coded warning and safety flag program, announced Sen. Tarr through a statement.

Senate Bill 409, An Act Creating Uniform Beach Warnings, was released from committee with a favorable report this morning following a public hearing that included testimony from Senator Tarr, Representative Ann-Margaret Ferrante (D-Gloucester) and the family of 2-year-old Caleigh Harrison, who went missing on April 19, 2012 while playing with her mother and sister at Rockport's Long Beach.

"Today the committee has taken a decisive step toward making our beaches safer and public safety stronger," said Senator Tarr in the statement. "The compelling story told by Caleigh's family moved legislators to action, and is making the difference in getting the bill passed."

"I am extremely proud of the Harrison family," added Representative Ferrante. "They are an inspiration for turning their tragedy into positive advocacy for public safety and preventing future tragedies. As the former vice chair and current member of the Environment Committee, I am pleased that we as a committee were able to vote this out of committee favorably."

The effort to pass Senate Bill 409 was initiated by Caleigh's uncle, David Harrison, who was on a business trip to Panama earlier this year when he learned about the country's color-coded flag system which is used to warn the public about the dangers of tides and riptides. Alabama, Florida, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Texas and several other states utilize a similar program, and the Harrison family is seeking to implement the same safety measures in Massachusetts.

"We're extremely thankful and delighted that the bill moved as fast as it did," said David Harrison. "We didn't expect that, and we're very grateful. We're also thankful for the efforts of Senator Tarr and Representative Ferrante. This is one big step toward something positive that we're trying to accomplish, and we want to thank the committee for pushing the bill through. We're definitely not the only family to lose a loved one like this, and we won't be the last, but we hope to reduce those numbers by passing this bill. It's a great way to honor Caleigh."

"I want to thank Senator Tarr and Caleigh's family for bringing this important issue to our attention," said Senator Marc R. Pacheco (D-Taunton), Senate Chairman to the Joint Committee on Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture. "Massachusetts should certainly employ this strategy; if it prevents another future tragedy, it will be well worth it."

"I am pleased to work with Senator Pacheco and the Committee members to advance this common sense piece of legislation," added Representative Anne Gobi (D-Spencer), House Chairman to the Joint Committee on Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture. "I know not every tragedy can be prevented but it is important to put measures in place that can raise awareness and increase public safety and this bill will do that."

The bill now heads to the Senate for further action.

Openings still available for 2013 All-Skills, Collegiate Prospect Camps at UMass Lowell

LOWELL (July 2, 2013) — Openings are still available for the 2013 UMass Lowell All-Skills Camp and Elite Collegiate Skills Prospect Camp slated for this month at River View Field.

The 2013 All-Skills Camp is scheduled for Monday, July 15 through Wednesday July 17 from 9:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. and is open to any and all entrants aged 11-18.

Campers will open the day with a dynamic warm-up and receive expert instruction in positional play, throwing and receiving, base running and hitting as well as live game instruction.

Camp staff includes head coach Sean Cotter, who will enter his fifth year this fall as UMass Lowell enters its first season in NCAA Division I and the America East Conference.

Cotter is joined by assistant coach Kara Melillo, a former Merrimack College standout entering her third year at UMass Lowell; as well fifth-year pitching coach Danielle Mason and former River Hawk standout Katie Mazure.

Cost of the All-Skills Camp is $150 per player and $175 per pitcher. A $20 discount is available for three or more players from the same team; and $20 for each additional sibling. Additionally, a $15 discount is available to children of UMass Lowell faculty and staff.

UMass Lowell's Collegiate Skills Two-Day Prospect Camp is slated for Tuesday and Wednesday, July 23-24, and will run from 9:00 a.m.-

4:00 p.m. at River View Field.

The camp is open to any and all entrants aged 14-18. Admission is $280 per player. Three or more players from the same high school team will be admitted for $250.

Camps staff will include coaches from Dartmouth College, Holy Cross and Providence College, as well as the universities of Rhode Island and New Hampshire; Franklin Pierce, American International College, Saint Anselm, Brandeis and Endicott College.

For more information, contact the UMass Lowell Softball Office at 978-934-3977; or assistant coach Kara Melillo at: kara_melillo@uml.edu.

Lots of Love Cat Rescue Mother and daughter need a home

Patricia is like no other mother, her nurturing ways so endearing to watch. During the kitten weaning-off process, she would get excited upon hearing her kittens squeek or seeing them scamper by. She would meow until she could get to them, washing one while pinning another down, to line up for the next bath. Her kittens created a flurry of calls, but none for Patricia. With just one kitten left - her matching Meboo, we would love to find a home for them to be together. If not, Patricia is fine to be adopted alone. Her unique and exotic look is striking, with her large ears and eyes, Siamese shaped face, freckled pink nose and sleek body movements. This gray and white beauty is about two years old. Patricia has a sweet temperament, affectionate and enjoys a good back and forth chat. Confidence in this cat is noticeable as she struts around the room, cordial to cats she meets. Thanks go out to the kind soul who heard soft meows under their porch and called for help. Whether she gets to keep her mom apron on or hang it up, Patricia is ready for her new home-sweet-home.

Shawsheen School third graders visitors to the State House on April 3 met with both Representative Jim Miceli and Representative Ken Gordon, shown here on the Grand Staircase. The students study state government as part of their curriculum and Wilmington brings third graders to the state house every year.

Affordable Home Improvements to Boost Your Home's Value

(StatePoint) In addition to filling practical needs, home improvement projects often can increase the value of a home with minimal investment. Some projects add more value than others, however.

So if you're looking to sell soon, or just add value without breaking the bank, opt for projects with great returns on investment.

But knowing which ones will yield a nice return can be tricky. To help, the home improvement experts at Linear, a manufacturer of wireless residential systems and products, are advising homeowners on affordable modernization projects that add instant value to a home:

• Security Systems:

When considering the cost versus return on investment, security systems offer instant value, since they increase a home's market value, reduce homeowners insurance and install quickly and easily. Security system technology has really adapted to the modern lifestyle, so homeowners can now monitor and manage systems 24/7 from smartphones, tablets and other mobile devices.

• Garage Door Operator:

An updated garage door operator offers built-in safety features, ultra-quiet operation and other improvements that add significant value over an erratic and noisy older model. Often ignored, battery backup units on garage doors grant access during black-out conditions, something to appreciate during adverse weather conditions.

• Central Vacuum System:

Homeowners with a central vacuum system enjoy more convenient cleaning and better air quality, but because it's considered by many to be a luxury item, homes with a centralized vacuum system can see an increase in value by as much as two or three times the cost of the system. And installing a system can be practical, even on a budget, as systems come at a range of price points. For example, Linear offers both disposable bag and bagless central vacuums that vary in their cleaning capacity based on the size of a home.

• Whole-house/multi-room audio:

Although a bit more expensive than other improvements, a distributed audio system is great for turning your home into an entertainment venue for hosting parties or supreme personal use.

• Video Intercoms:

Especially useful for larger houses or work-from-home offices that get frequent deliveries, a video intercom is great for security and convenience to let homeowners know who's at the door before revealing whether anyone is home. New models like Linear's VMC-1 also send email or text alerts with pictures when a homeowner is away, giving snapshot views of who has come and gone. They also make a great first impression for people considering a home purchase and are affordable to install and operate.

More home improvement ideas, and a network of skilled installers who can finish your project quickly and affordably, can be found at <http://www.LinearCorp.com/locator>.

There are many different ways to affordably make your home stand out from a crowd and boost its value.

Handful of locals graduate from Emmanuel College

Emmanuel College recently held its 91st Commencement. During the ceremony, more than 560 bachelor's and master's candidates were awarded degrees including the following local students: From Tewksbury - Donald W. Barker (Bachelor of Science in Nursing); Alice Jean Zajtoli (Bachelor of Arts in English - Communication, Media and Cultural Studies); From Wilmington - Linda Marie Cote (Bachelor of Science in Business Administration), Sarah Marie Hamilton (Bachelor of Science in Psychology) and Laurie-Ann Kendra Mansir (Bachelor of Arts in English - Communication, Media and Cultural Studies).

Randall Davis promoted by the MSCPA

The Massachusetts Society of CPAs (MSCPA) appointed Wilmington resident Randall S. Davis, CPA to its board of directors for the 2013-2014 fiscal year. The board members were sworn in at the MSCPA's Annual Meeting and Recognition Reception in May. Davis is a partner at Daniel Dennis & Company LLP in Dedham.

The Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants, Inc. is the state professional association of certified public accountants, representing over 11,000 members in public accounting practice, industry and business, government and education. The Society works to develop and maintain high professional standards and offers a wide array of legislative, technical and referral services to its members.

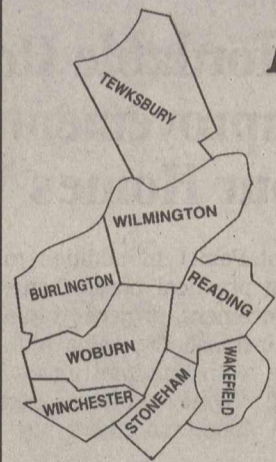

Hammond Castle Renaissance Festival, July 27-28

A third season for Hammond Castle Renaissance Festival approaches this July 27th and 28th of 2013. Abbadia Mare Renaissance Festival will be going on the last weekend of July from 11 am to 5 pm per day.

There will be Knights in shining armor battling it out, silly magic shows, belly dancing, music, storytelling as well as a Human Chess Match each day. What makes this event extraordinary is Hammond Castle itself has a breath taking view of the ocean which adds to the medieval magic.

The price of admission is $15 for adults, $10 for children ages 5 - 12, and children ages 4 and under will be free. Parking will be located at Stage Fort Park, which charges $15 per vehicle but free busing will be provided to and from the event. Please note that Hammond Castle is not wheelchair accessible.

For more information on this event, please see their website at www.abbadiamarefestival.com.

National Bike Challenge registration

The Massachusetts Bicycle Coalition (MassBike) today launched the National Bike Challenge, an initiative sponsored by the League of American Bicyclists and the Kimberly-Clark Corporation, which encourages more people to ride bicycles for transportation or recreation. Building on the momentum of the MassCommute Bicycle Challenge during Bay State Bike Week, this friendly nation-wide competition runs through the end of September. Sign up for the National Bike Challenge and show the rest of New England (and the country) the Bay State's commitment to biking!

Participants automatically compete for their state and local community, and can also represent their company or school. Larger organizations can even have more than one team. Individuals receive points based on their tracked mileage. People who consistently ride more than a mile a day are entered to win prizes. The more you bike, the better your chance of winning (and the better the prizes) will be!

Riding in the National Bike Challenge is fun and easy. Powered by Endomondo, participants can track miles using a smartphone app or the Endomondo website. Once you register, all miles tracked through September automatically count toward the National Bike Challenge. A step-by-step registration guide for signing up and participating as a resident of Massachusetts can be found on the MassBike website: (<http://massbike.org/national-bike-challenge/>). Interested bikers can also check out the National Bike Challenge website: (<http://nationalbikechallenge.org>) to find out more information about the challenge. Get registered and get biking today!

Support the Troops Motorcycle Poker Run, August 24th

The 8th annual 'Local Heroes Support the Troops Motorcycle Poker Run' will be held on August 24th, 2013. Registration will held from 9-10:30 am at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks located at 777 South Street in Tewksbury. Donation is $20 per ride and $10 per passenger, and the event includes a BBQ and a t-shirt, while entertainment will be provided with the band "Infra-Red" performing. All proceeds will go to support our troops.

If you don't have a bike, or if it's raining, no problem a bus will be provided.

Local Heroes, Inc. is a Non-profit organization working to support our local Servicemen, Servicewomen and their families. One hundred percent of all donations received go directly to those Local Heroes.

It's the little things from home that can have a large positive impact on the success of our soldiers. We need your help in achieving our goal. For more Info please contact Chris Barry @ (508) 954-7840 or log onto: www.mass-localheroes.org.

Escape to Woods Hole

A great 'school is out' trip

By Paige Impink
Special to the Crier

To many people, Woods Hole is just a place to catch the ferry to Martha's Vineyard. I'll let you in on a secret though- this tiny town offers quite a bit on its own. A huge advantage of going before July 4th is lack of crowds. Depart early on a Saturday and arrive ahead of any traffic. There's free parking behind one of the Marine buildings downtown, so stretch, walk on the walls and take in the view of the busy harbor. Wander to the Marine Fisheries Aquarium and see the seals in the pool out front and check times for feedings. The aquarium itself is small and free, but loaded with interesting fish, exhibits, and touchables. Be sure to go upstairs and see "behind the scenes" - a real treat!

Take a picnic lunch and drive to the small beach near Nobska Light. Enjoy your lunch then head up to explore the light. Head back to town and visit the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute Visitor Center. This has a small but extremely cool set of exhibits, including ALVIN- the submersible that found the Titanic. There are lots of buttons and switches to push and a movie that gives a perspective on undersea exploration. We had the place to ourselves, easily staying for an hour.

Lodging was the Sleepy Hollow Motor Inn, a cute and very simple family motel. The kids loved the pool and we had a little front porch to sit out, hang wet suits, read and have coffee. Walking to town is a breeze. Pie in the Sky has excellent coffee, breakfast items and sandwiches. Entrees at the other restaurants downtown are pricey and not super kid-friendly. Instead, we headed to Falmouth and walked the main street. We ended up at Steve's Pizza which was perfect and didn't involve a 45 minute wait amongst the more mature tourist set. Good salads, pasta and pizza were all we needed.

Another place to explore is Wood Neck beach. It has a natural marsh river, providing a perfect spot for inner tubes and very safe for little ones at low tide. It is a town beach but we were told they don't look for stickers until after July 4th. Shells and stones abound, so bring surf shoes. We finished with a tremendous buffet at Coonamessett Farm in Sippewissett. This family farm has an aquaculture display, wind turbine, pick your own eggs and animals for kids to see. We spent several hours there with no rush to leave, but you must visit when they have special dinner events as it is otherwise members-only. Jamaican nights can be fun. <http://www.coonamessett-farm.com/>

Consider riding bikes in Woods Hole as the Shining Sea Bike Trail winds in and out of the area. Whether you stay for a few days and add a trip to the Vineyard, or visit overnight, Woods Hole is a charming family spot and is refreshingly devoid of shops and tourist traps. Hope you give it a whirl!
